BIG CONTRACTS CANCELED.

American Expenditures in France Are Coming to an End.

Tours, Thursday, Nov. 21.—Contracts aggregating one billion dollars have been cancelled by the American expeditionary forces since the signing of the armistice. In future, the American, British and French governments will pool their surplus stocks and will buy through a common purchasing agency.

Forty thousand men engaged in the American supply service will be sent to advanced areas as replacement troops for the army of occupation. The supply department will continue its routine work as long as necessary.

Forty-three construction projects, including a deep water dock for twenty ships, terminals, warehouses and railroads have been cancelled. Orders for $2,500 locomotives, 6,000 railroad cars, and hundreds of cranes, tugs, barges and derricks also have been recalled. The transport program has been reduced materially, while the ordnance department has been cut down by two-thirds. The reduction in the air service has not as yet been announced.

How Ohio Got Seed Corn.

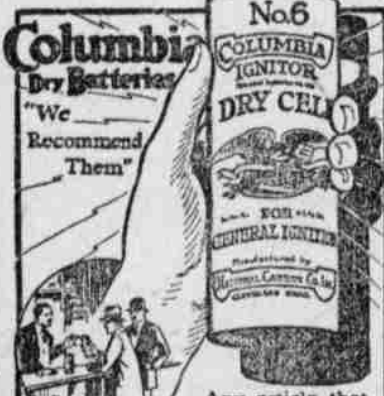

The state-wide shortage of good seed corn in Ohio this season was met by the farm bureau and county agents through the purchase and distribution through the state of 80,000 bushels from Pennsylvania and Delaware. The agricultural extension organization brought in 67 carloads, and the supply was distributed by county agents in the principal corn sections. In addition to this emergency supply, four and one-half carloads were reassigned from the federal reserve supply at Toledo, and about 15,000 bushels of 1917 seed corn were redistributed. Sixty-five counties made use of the reserve supply at Toledo upon orders from the county emergency agents. More than 10,000 bushels of this corn were distributed among farmers in lots varying from two bushels to 1,000 bushels.

LOOKING OVER INTO GERMANY

American Army Stood on West Bank of Moselle Sunday Night

ITS EXTREME LEFT WAS IN SAUER TOWN

Lt.-Col. T. Roosevelt, Jr., in Von Hindenburg's Old Headquarters

With the American Army of Occupation, Sunday, Nov. 24 (by the Associated Press).—American forces are standing on the west side of the Moselle river to-night. The extreme left of the line is at the frontier village of Vallendorf, on the Sauer river. From this point it follows the Sauer to its confluence with the Moselle and extends along the latter river as far south as Gersheim.

The third division was the first to reach the German border, having established headquarters overlooking Germany to-day. This division will remain along the line near Remich, on the southeastern border of Luxembourg, until the army of occupation moves ahead into Germany. Among the other units on the American front is the 20th infantry of the 1st division, which has its headquarters in the village of Ehenen. Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is occupying a room in a hotel here formerly occupied by Von Hindenburg, German field marshal. His room overlooks the Moselle and the bluffs on the German side, which are devoted to the raising of grapes.

Conservation Still in Force.

While there is general rejoicing over the beginning of the end of the world war, it is well for everyone to bear in mind that the conditions under which we have been living in this country still continue in a large measure, and will do so for some time to come.

The war is over, but the necessity for conservation of food and fuel has not been ended. Some people have entertained the notion that the governmental economic control would automatically end with the signing of the armistice. But such is not the fact. The food and fuel administrations continue in force until the president proclaims peace after a treaty of peace has been ratified by the Senate. And it may be a long day before that time arrives. Instead of having fewer people to feed than during the period of conflict the end of strife has thrown vastly more upon our bounty. We must prepare a table before countless thousands for many months to come. The released inhabitants of many countries who in one way or another were kept alive by the crumbs that fell from the Prussian table, are left without any visible means of support, now that the allies have driven the Germans from the lander that they presided over. Until these hungry millions have been enabled to get upon their feet, we who have this world's goods must act the part of the Good Samaritan and divide our substance with the unfortunate who have fallen among thieves, robbers and beasts, and left half dead by the wayside.

As a matter of common humanity, therefore, we must share our abundance some time longer with those who have lost all their living. And since there has been no real suffering at home—merely a little inconvenience, and assimilation of unaccustomed food—we shall cheerfully forego the former habits of eating and drinking, being clothed and warmed, that others may not only have some of the comforts of life, but be enabled to realize that the milk of human kindness has not entirely soured in the human breast.—Rutland Herald.

ORANGE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Notes for Week Ending Nov. 23.

The following statement by Hon. David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, is of interest to every farmer in the country:

"We should not only have the best possible organization and co-operation of the department of agriculture, the agricultural colleges, the state departments of agriculture and farmers' associations, but we should especially strengthen the local farm bureaus and other organizations which support so effectively the extension forces and assist them in their activities.

The perfecting of this organization is highly desirable not only during the continuance of the present abnormal conditions, but also for the future. The local as well as the state and federal agencies are of supreme importance to the nation in all its activities designed to make rural life more profitable, healthful and attractive; and therefore to secure adequate economic production, efficient distribution and necessary conservation of our agricultural resources.

The main purpose of this appeal is to direct attention to the necessity of continuing our state of preparedness and of strengthening the foundations of our agriculture.

The state extension service has this to say regarding farm bureaus in Vermont:

"The farm bureaus of Vermont are taking steps in preparation for the 1919 agricultural program. The average membership in the 12 farm bureaus now in operation in Vermont is 507; Orange county leading with a membership of 945. Several of the other counties are conducting membership campaigns at this time. Farmers are rapidly learning that the farm bureau is their organization and that it is through the farm bureau that they can secure a great many privileges which heretofore have been available to them but not so readily recognized nor so accessible. By discussing their problems in community meetings held by the farm bureaus, they are making agricultural and home development programs.

"Under the plan, which is fostered by the United States department of agriculture and agricultural extension service of the University of Vermont, and state agricultural college the farmers are not told what they should do, but are encouraged to study the problems of their own communities under the guidance of the county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents and to call upon the above sources for such assistance as they can render."

Are you supporting your farm bureau?

Taplin Hill Farmers' club held its annual meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Charles White of South Corinth. Leon Landry was re-elected president. Walter Carter elected vice-president. Carl Carter, secretary and Fred Hood treasurer. Following a discussion on maple sugar containers, an oyster supper was served, followed by a social time.

Williamstown grange and the schools combined forces in holding a fair Friday and Saturday. The entries were excellent in both classes and with more favorable conditions so a larger number could have taken part, would have rivalled some more pretentious fairs. Exhibits of this kind lend encouragement and aid to all who are trying to better their farm products. May we have in coming years more of them.

The county agent expects to be present at the meeting of the Washington Farmers' club Friday night this coming week. The following week he plans to be at South Stratford for a meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 3, and at Tunbridge creamery Dec. 4.

Recipe for the week: Cranberry sauce—1 quart cranberries, 1 cup raisins or figs or coconut, 2 cups water, ½ cup sorghum or cane syrup. Inspect and wash cranberries, prepare raisins, cut in small pieces, add to cranberries and other ingredients. Cook until tender.

E. H. Loveland, county agent.

Miss Mildred Dutton, home demonstration agent.

WINTER HALTS WAR OPERATIONS

All the Rivers in Northern Russia Are Now Icebound

BOLSHEVIK GUNBOATS NO LONGER USEFUL

But the Marshes Have Been Frozen Over on Other Parts of War Zone

Archangel, Monday, Nov. 25 (by the Associated Press).—Winter has begun in earnest over the whole northern Russian front. All the rivers are ice-bound and the bolshevik gunboats, which have long menaced the American and allied forces on the Dvina, have been forced to withdraw to escape being frozen in. The bolsheviks, however, have mounted big guns along the front south of the allied armies.

Operations are limited to spasmodic artillery exchanges, but the bolshevik forces are reported to be receiving heavy reinforcements. The freeze-up, while bringing relief on the Dvina front, increases the danger on others, as the once impassable swamps now are frozen, making possible bushwhacking flank attacks by the enemy.

CABOT

Hiram Gilman, 88, Died Nov. 19.—Musician and Extensive Traveler.

Hiram Gilman passed away Saturday, Nov. 16, at lower Cabot at the advanced age of 88 years. Eight years ago he came to live with his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Hall, and since a year ago last spring has been confined to his bed.

About three weeks previous to his death, while his mind was delicious, he fell and broke one hip, causing intense suffering until he was released by death. He was born in Hardwick and had followed painting and horse training. He was also skilled in music, making the first instrument which he ever played, a flute, being obliged to keep it in a tub of water when not in use. He was leader of a band in Omaha which was afterward named Gilman's band, with which some of his family were familiar. He had traveled quite extensively, going west as far as Omaha and adjoining states, finally reaching France. He was an attendant of the Congregational church. When a young man he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Barr, who died several years ago. A daughter was born to them, who has been privileged in caring for her father in his declining years. Funeral services were held Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Rev. M. W. Hale officiating. His remains were placed in the family lot in Durant cemetery at lower Cabot.

A daughter, Ruby May, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brimblecombe on Nov. 21.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer LaBree on Nov. 18.

Miss Sarah Dow has been ill the past week, with child.

Mrs. Willie Barr spent last week in Barre and Northfield, visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Butterfield, who have been ill, are slowly improving.
